

REMARKS

Minor amendments have been made to certain claims to remove reference numerals from the claims. No new matter has been added. While reference numerals were originally included to improve readability of the claims, the amendments make clear that the reference numerals are not intended to define the scope of the claims with respect to the referenced elements.

Additionally, in claim 1, “the receive frequency” has been clarified to state “a receive frequency” since no “receive frequency” was previously recited in the claim. Additionally, to improve readability, “one and same amplifier” has been clarified to “one and the same amplifier.” Finally, “one and same mixer” has been clarified to “one and the same mixer.”

In claim 2, the phrase “the radio interface” has been clarified to “one of the radio interfaces” since plural radio interfaces were previously introduced in the preamble of the claim. Also, “one and same mixer” has been clarified to “one and the same mixer” and “one and same amplifier” has been clarified to “one and the same amplifier” to improve readability.

In claim 3, “baseband converted digital” has been clarified to “baseband converted to digital” to improve readability.

In claim 12, “the carrier frequency” and “the transmit frequency” have been clarified to “a carrier frequency” and “a transmit frequency” since such frequencies were not previously introduced in this claim.

In claim 21, “baseband converted digital” has been clarified to “baseband converted to digital” to improve readability.

In claim 26, “baseband converted digital” has been clarified to “baseband converted to digital” to improve readability.

In claim 28, “baseband converted digital” has been clarified to “baseband converted to digital” to improve readability.
